On Blondes by Joanna Pitman, Bloomsbury, 2003, 272 pp., Blonde women, both natural and contrived, are disproportionately represented in film, fashion, advertising, and television. Blonde women are generally thought of as the most beautiful, not only in northern Europe and North America where many natural blondes live, but also in those parts of the world where blondes are rare.

Titian's Venus and Adonis shows similar sensibilities: a mass of golden touches represents the pearls and highlights in the goddess' blonde hair, and the subtle modulations of tone across her back suggest flesh without sharp edges. In his dialogue on painting, Dolce champions Titian for his naturalism over Michelangelo, Vasari's hero.

Blond or fair hair is a hair color characterized by low levels of the dark pigment eumelanin.The resultant visible hue depends on various factors, but always has some yellowish color. The color can be from the very pale blond (caused by a patchy, scarce distribution of pigment) to reddish "strawberry" blond or golden-brownish ("sandy") blond colors (the latter with more eumelanin).
